BY THE GOVERNOR.

A THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

Gratitude and reverent obedience require us to give thanks to Almighty God, for the mercies and blessings he has bestowed upon us, for the very abundant harvests vouchsafed us, for the constantly increasing prosperity of the many laborers, for the enlargement and augmentation of business and financial success, and the many other blessings accorded us during the past year.

Now, therefore, in compliance with this praiseworthy desire, and in harmony with the president of the United States, I, Jeremiah M. Rusk, governor of the state of Wisconsin, do hereby appoint as a day of praise and thanksgiving, for the continued unity and prosperity of the nation, for the additional growth and welfare of the state, and for the manifold blessings we have been permitted to enjoy as individuals. Being thankful for so many manifestations of the infinite goodness of Divine Providence, it is recommended that on the day herein appointed, the people of this state abstain from their ordinary vocations, and assembling in their accustomed places, give due expressions of gratitude and praise for His protection and guidance.

Thursday, November 30th, 1882,

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the state of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the city of [GREAT SEAL] Madison, this thirtieth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and eighty-two.

By the Governor: J. M. RUSK

ERNST G. TIMME, Secretary of State.

Wisconsin came very near having only one republican congressman. Isaac Stephenson, in the ninth district goes in by less than a hundred plurality.

It is announced that Colonel Mapleson has refused an offer of $6,300 a night for Patti in Brazil. Any price would be too cheap for Brazil.

Mr. Hubbard, of Massachusetts, bought a house in Washington for $100,000, and gave it to his daughter, who is the wife of Mr. Bell, of telephone fame. She is a deaf mute, and an accomplished lady.

After the first day of January there will be more democratic governors in the United States than was ever before known. When Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Kansas and Michigan, will elect democratic governors, it is about time to admit that anything is possible in American politics.

The State Journal, in noting the election of Colonel Britton to the legislature, says: "Colonel Britton is a new man as a legislator. He is a gentleman, however, of first-class qualifications, has a brilliant war record, is a successful, whole-souled business man, and is most deservedly popular in the district which has chosen him as its representative."

Akin to the defeat of Governor St. John, of Kansas, is the election of four democrats to congress from Iowa. It is hard to realize such a change as this in these states of school houses and big republican majorities. If these astonishing changes keep on coming, who knows but that the democratic party may become honest.

The Inter Ocean says, "the republican party having gone through with a performance analagous to that of a man kicking himself down stairs, the questions of the hour are, what will be the effect and what shall be done about it?" The republican party has done that thing by the material help of congress, and a few men in New York and Pennsylvania, who thought the republican party could be driven after the fashion of the old democratic party. They made a mistake, congress made a mistake, and the republican party made a mistake in kicking itself down stairs. It is is down, but when it gets up and looks around, and sees what a fool it made of itself, it will straighten up and do better.

General Sherman is making a strong appeal for the increase of the army from twenty-five thousand to thirty thousand men. The New York Tribune suggests that the service of our soldiers in the far west entitles them to consideration, and there ought to be enough of them, so that the needed work can be property done. In the last twenty years the troubles with the Indians have decreased, partly owing to improved facilities of transportation, but largely to the precautions taken by the proper officers, laboring under many disadvantages. If the army were increased as General Sherman wishes, probably the actual expense to country would not be greater than it is now. It costs no small sum to take the soldiers from one place to another.

ABOUT THE INDEPENDENTS.

From the outset the Gazette discouraged the independent movement against the re-election of Mr. Williams, and particularly suggested that the opposition to him coming from dissatisfied republicans, should have been made at or before the nominating convention at Geneva. But the independent movement so far as the young republicans were concerned was at that time without an organization. There was opposition, but that opposition was not solidified, and it was not until after the Geneva convention did its work that the independent republicans assumed the dignity of a little political party in the first district.

They seemed to go into the fight with more courage, dash, and assumption, than discretion, wisdom, and hope; but the storm of public indignation which swept over the eastern states reached Wisconsin, and the independents gained one of the most remarkable political achievements of the year. They have elected Mr. Winans which was as great a surprise to them as to anyone else. They glory over their wonderful victory and are proud of their candidate, but what next? The independents claim that their work is done, that while they opposed Mr. Williams because, as they allege, he had misrepresented his constituents, they are still in full sympathy with the principles of the republican party, and purpose to stand by that party. Fethers, Hyzer, Richardson, Burpee, Menzies, and other independent republicans who took an active part in the campaign against Mr. Williams, avow their intention to earnestly support the republican party so long as the party holds to its original platform of principles. They announce that they do not entertain the least bitterness of feeling toward any one who directly opposed them in the canvass, neither do they purpose to nurse any personal animosity toward Mr. Williams. They intend to act with the republican party and to aid it in all good works. They made a hard fight for their side, and the strange condition of the politics of the country, and the unrest among the people, gave these young men remarkable success.

Every true republican in the district will deeply lament the condition of affairs that led to the defeat of the republican party in this district. It should not have been thus; but the work has been done, and common sense and wisdom will dictate that the only thing left for the republicans of Janesville to do is to unite their strength, reorganize, and pull together in future campaigns. It cannot be said that the party can get along just as well without these independent republicans, because very recent events tell us too forcibly that they have an influence that cannot be altogether ignored. Harmony is what is needed, here as well as elsewhere. The republican party cannot be saved without it.

CAN THE PARTY WIN IN 1884?

It was stated in these columns several days since, on the authority of an old democratic stager in the east, that if the democrats carried congress this year, they would lose the national election in 1884. This position was taken by this democratic stager because he had been thoroughly acquainted with the democratic party since the days of Jackson, and knew all about its tendency to commit blunders. If the democrats got the control of the house of representatives for the next two years, he argued that it was a moral certainty that they would blunder enough in the meantime to disgust the public and turn the tide against them in 1884; and the only hope they had to win two years hence was to voluntarily give the republicans the forty-eight congress so that the democrats could not politically cut their throats during the next two years.

Of course this was said in a jocular spirit, but there is equally as much truth in it as humor. A democratic majority in congress has never been of any practical service to the democratic party, except in furnishing the office seekers with easy and paying positions for a limited time; and it is reasonable to suppose that during the next two years the democratic party in congress will not be different from what it has been in the past.

But however true all this may be it will not do for the republican party to entirely depend upon democratic blunders for success in the coming struggle of '84. If there ever was a time when the republican party should wake up and become imbued with its original spirit, it is in 1882. It needs to be born again and re-baptised with that spirit which come from Lincoln, Sumner, Chase, Greeley, Henry Wilson, and the other heroes who gave the republican party its birth, and won for it the marvelous victories over extravagance, slavery, and rebel sympathy. If the leaders of the republican party in congress, and the republican legislatures in the north would turn over a new leaf without delay, and act now as they acted fifteen and twenty years ago, they will recover in 1884, the lost ground of 1882, and will still remain in control of the government.

There should be no "bosses," no whip and lash in the hands of party leaders, no appearance of machine influences, no more river and harbor extravagance that southern democrats may be made "solid" in their districts and safely returned to congress, no more wasting of the public funds simply because the treasury is full of money, no more covering up of frauds, and no more efforts to bulldoze or muzzle the press because it attempts to judiciously and timely condemn the wrong-doing of party leaders. If the republicans in congress will not do these things, but keep themselves above reproach—the unflinching guardians of the people's rights—the party will yet win in 1884. The same spirit which moved the people in 1860 and for many years after, exists among the people to-day, and when the republican party allows itself to be controlled by that spirit and none other, it will as certainly win in the coming national contest as that contest will take place.

The republicans can pull together again in time for the great battle of '84 if they will. The field is not hopelessly lost. The party has achieved wonders at many times, and it is strong enough to keep the democratic party where it belongs—in the minority. A little wisdom and a reorganization, will save the republican party from a disaster in 1884.

THE ELECTIONS.

The Result as Regards the State Ticket in Illinois Yet Doubtful.

Cleveland's Majority in New York, 196,016.

ILLINOIS.

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 10.—The Republicans generally about the state house are busy figuring upon and inquiring about the state ticket. The Democrats claim that Orendorf for treasurer and Raab for state superintendent of public instruction are elected. The Republicans hold on to Smith and hope for Strattan.

The Republicans here attribute the defeat, as far as it has extended, to disaffection among the Germans on the temperance question. Hon. Ed. Rutz, the Stalwart German state treasurer, says: "I told our people how it would turn out six months ago. The trouble that has come upon the Republican party in Illinois has been brought about by the prohibition craze. The way things look now, I fear I will be succeeded by a Democrat." However, if that is the voice of the people, I will turn over the treasury keys and funds to Maj. Orendorf with as much grace as I would to Gen. Smith."

The declaration made this morning by Gov. Cullom's Springfield organ, that "prohibition is the irrepressible conflict of to-day," and followed by the question "What horn of the dilemma will the Republican party take?" has caused considerable commotion among the Republican politicians.

The latest estimate made by Gov. Cullom and the Republicans puts the Thirty-third general assembly at 77 Republicans, 75 Democrats and Independents. Claiming the election of Thomas in the Twentieth district and Cullen in the Eighth district, the congressional delegation stands 11 Republicans, 9 Democrats, and 1 Independent.

INDIANA.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—The next legislature will be largely Democratic: Senate, 22 Republicans; 28 Democrats. House, 53 Republicans; 65 Democrats. The congressional delegation will stand 9 Democrats, 4 Republicans, a gain of 4 Democrats. The state goes 12,000 Democratic. Complete returns show Poolle elected to congress over English by 60 votes, and that the Republican candidates, with two or three exceptions, are elected in this county by from 50 to 800 majority. Ayers, judge of the circuit court, and Norton, judge of the criminal court, both Democrats, are, however, elected.

CROWN POINT, Nov. 10.—My majority over DeMotte, Republican, for congress, is over nine hundred. THOMAS J. WOOD.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—Further official returns received by the Republicans to-day reduce English's majority in Hancock county to 32. This will increase Poolle's majority for congress to 81. The Democratic committee still claim that English will have 90 majority when the official returns are completed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—From the returns already in the estimate is made that the Democrats have carried the state by from 12,000 to 15,000, there being a decrease of 26,000 votes from 1880. The Democrats gain four congressmen, giving them a total of nine, to four for the Republicans, the delegation standing as follows: First district, John J. Kleiner, Dem.; Second, Thomas R. Cobb, Dem.; Third, S. M. Stockslager, Dem.; Fourth, W. S. Holman, Dem.; Fifth, C. C. Matson, Dem.; Sixth, Thomas M. Browne, Rep.; Seventh, Stanton J. Poolle, Rep.; Eighth, John E. Lamb, Dem.; Ninth, Thomas W. Wood, Dem.; Tenth, Thomas J. Ward, Dem.; Eleventh, George W. Steele, Rep.; Twelfth, Robert Lowry, Dem.; Thirteenth, W. H. Calkins, Rep.; The legislature will be composed as follows: Senate, Republicans, 22; Democrats, 28. House, Republicans, 41; Democrats, 58; Greenbacker, 1. In this district Poolle is elected over young English by a majority less than 100, but the exact figures cannot be ascertained till the board of canvassers finish their work, which will be in the morning. English will contest the election. The Republicans also elect the principal county officers and two judges, and possibly two legislators. The official returns have been delayed by accusations of fraud, etc. When the Second precinct of the Twelfth ward was called to-day it was discovered that the ballot box was missing, and it has not since been found. This is a strong Republican precinct, and the possible throwing out of the vote would elect English and two Democrats on the county ticket. To-night it was discovered that the ballot boxes in two precincts in the Twenty-fifth, a strong Democratic ward, were missing, and these have evidently been held out by the Republicans to make a stand off for the Twelfth ward box. There is little probability, however, that any of the precincts named will be thrown out, as only the boxes are missing, and the returns have been properly certified to. The defeat of English, of which there seems to be no doubt, is a most crushing blow to the Democracy. A dispatch received here from Terre Haute at midnight, says that there is a prospect of counting Lamb out in that district and re-electing Pierce, but the grounds for it are not given.

IOWA.

DES MOINES, Nov. 10.—Iowa Republicans have received no consolation from the later returns from various parts of the state. On the contrary, the loss of another congressman, Updegraff, in the Fourth district, is assured. Weller, Greenbacker, being elected over him by a good round majority. A private dispatch received from him yesterday afternoon places his majority at 1,200 but that is probably a little too high though he may reach 700. Weller was the only fusion candidate in the district, and his election was most unexpected. Pusey, Dem., in the Ninth, will not have less than 2,000 plurality over Anderson. Murphy, Dem., in the Second, has not less than 2,700. The result in the Fifth is very close, but there is nothing further indicating the defeat of Frederick, Dem., who has less than 100 majority in the district. A special from Iowa City to-night claims his defeat, but in order to do so it gives his competitor, Wilson, a majority of 500 in Marshal county, while trustworthy reports direct from that county give him only 125 majority from there. The Iowa City figures must be erroneous, though the vote is undoubtedly very close. The delegation then will stand 7 Republicans, 3 Democrats and 1 Greenbacker.

The result of Tuesday's elections is most curiously commented upon. The Republicans have divergent views as to the cause of the signal defeat in the east and great loss in Iowa. Some attribute it to the "bosses," while others declare that the party must stop running after the issues of the day. The temperance question they particularly demand shall be dropped from a place among the party idols. This question and woman suffrage shall be laid away together. The Register's returns indicate a Republican majority on the state ticket of 30,000 or 31,000.

MICHIGAN.

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—Returns from the Ninth congressional district are at last in. Gen. Byron M. Cutcheon, Rep., is elected by nearly 3,000. The Michigan delegation to congress will stand as follows: First district, William C. Maybury, Dem.; Second, N. B. Eldredge, Dem.; Third, E. S. Lacey, Rep.; Fourth, Geo. L. Yaple, Dem.; Fifth, J. O. Houseman, Dem.; Sixth, E. B. Winans, Dem.; Seventh, E. C. Carleton, Dem.; Eighth, E. G. Horr, Rep.; Ninth, B. M. Cutcheon, Rep.; Tenth, H. H. Hatch, Rep.; Eleventh, Edward Breitung, Rep.

WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 10.—Returns for the state legislature are complete, showing the following complexion: Senate—Nineteen Republicans, fourteen Democrats; Democratic gain of four. Assembly—Fifty-three Republicans, forty-three Democrats, two Trades Assembly and two Independent; Republican loss of twelve. The Republican majority on joint ballot is eight.

Complete returns from the Seventh congressional district give Woodward, Dem., a majority over Butt, Rep., of 1,316. In the Sixth district the complete returns give Guenther, Rep., a majority over Habon, Dem., of 363. The First district complete gives Winans, Dem., a majority of 233 over Williams, Rep. The congressional delegation, therefore, consists of six Democrats and three Republicans, viz.: John Winans, D. H. Sumner, B. W. Jones, P. V. Deuster, Joseph Rankin and Gilbert E. Woodward, Dems.; Richard Guenther, W. T. Price and Isaac Stephenson, Reps. This is the way the result is figured out at Republican headquarters in this city.

MADISON, Nov. 10.—At Democratic headquarters here it is claimed that they have elected seven out of the nine congressmen, including Winans in the First, Sumner in the Second, Jones in the Third, Woodward in the Seventh and Park in the Eighth. The next legislature will stand, according to the figures received here: Senate, 16 Democrats, 16 Republicans, 1 Independent; assembly 56 Democrats, 41 Republicans, 2 Trades Democrats and 1 Independent. The plurality of Burr W. Jones in the Third congressional district will be about 5,500. The vote of Hazelton in the district is more than double that of Keyes. The total vote for Jones in Dane county is about 4,894, Keyes 2,383, Hazelton 1,518, and Hastings 976.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The latest returns in this state give Cleveland a majority over Folger of 196,016. There are still a few counties for which the figures are only approximately correct, but any change in these is likely to be in the direction of increasing the Democratic majority. There were but eight counties—Clinton, Essex, Franklin, Onondaga, Putnam, St. Lawrence, Washington, and Yates—which gave Republican majorities on Tuesday, and and the total of these is but slightly over 7,000 votes. In 1881 forty-two counties went Republican and forty-six in 1880. Assuming that the total vote of the state cast on Tuesday was about 950,000 the Democratic state ticket would seem to have polled 573,000 and the Republicans 375,000 votes.

Aside from the office-seeking section of the Republican party in this state, the most serious disaster to many is the loss of the assembly and the prospect of a new Democratic apportionment of the congressional districts. At Troy Republicans say that Burleigh will be the last Republican congressman from that district, it being expected that Rensselaer and Columbia will be put together to make a sure Democratic district. Other changes will be made throughout the state so as to gain Democratic districts.

From the latest returns received, it appears that the congressional delegation from this state will be directly reversed politically from what it was in the last house. With the congressman-at-large included, the delegation will stand: Democrats, 21; Republicans, 13. In the last house it was: Democrats, 13; Republicans, including Hyatt Smith, Independent Republican, 20.

The following is the city vote for the constitutional amendment to make the canals of the state free: For amendment, 114,051; against, 630.

The returns show remarkable voting. For instance, one election district in Brooklyn, generally strong Republican, gave Folger just 75 votes and Cleveland 425. The Eleventh and Twelfth assembly districts, in this city, which include wealthy and hitherto Republican Murray Hill, give Cleveland 3,000 majority. These instances are repeated all over the state. Old reliable Republican counties, like Oneida, Cayuga and Jefferson give Cleveland bigger majorities than they ever gave the most popular Republican.

ALBANY, Nov. 8.—The Journal estimates Cleveland's majority at 190,000; gives 85 Democrats and 48 Republicans in the assembly, and says the majority in favor of free canals is fully 150,000.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Complete returns show that the next state senate will stand 29 Republicans and 21 Democrats. Returns from nearly all the assembly districts and careful estimates from those not heard from give the Democrats 110 members and the Republicans 91. These figures will not be materially changed. The present senate stands, 32 Republicans and 18 Democrats; the house, 122 Republicans and 79 Democrats.

ARKANSAS.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 10.—Returns received to-day indicate the election of James K. Jones, Democrat, over John A. Williams, Republican, in the Second congressional district, by 2,000 majority. This gives Arkansas an unbroken Democratic congressional delegation of five. The Republicans here concede Williams' defeat.

COLORADO.

DENVER, Nov. 10.—Arapahoe county, including Denver, gives Grant, Democrat, for governor, 2,200 majority, and Wallace, Democratic congressman, 510 majority. The indications are that Grant's majority in the state will be 2,500, and Belford, Republican, for congress, elected by a small majority of 200 or 300. The remainder of the state ticket, including the lieutenant governor, is undoubtedly Republican. The Republicans also have a majority of the legislature.

DELAWARE.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 10.—The official vote of Delaware gives Stockley, Dem., for governor, 1,038 majority; Love, Dem., for congress, 1,023 majority. Martin, Rep., is elected sheriff of Newcastle county by 9 majority. With this exception the Democratic ticket is elected. The next legislature will stand: House, solid Democrat; senate, 8 Democrats and 1 Republican—who holds over.

FLORIDA.

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 10—These are the first authentic returns from Florida. The Second district is in serious doubt. Returns from sixteen counties, all except Dade and Brevard, give Bisbee, Rep., 250 majority. Dade and Brevard gave Finley 157 majority last year. All the returns indicate steady gains for Bisbee. Most Democrats concede Bisbee's election by a small majority. A few claim that the returns from Dade and Brevard counties will elect Finley. Both sides are anxious. If Bisbee is elected the Democrats will contest on the ground of illegal Republican colonization and voting reported from three counties.

KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 10.—A special to The Courier-Journal from Mt. Sterling says Adams, Dem., defeats White, Rep., for congress in the Tenth district by a majority of over 1,000. The Kentucky delegation will stand ten Democrats and one Republican.

KANSAS.

TOPEKA, Nov. 10.—Returns from 108 legislative districts elect 59 Republicans who were nominated by district or county conventions, 14 Independent Republicans, 26 Democrats, and 9 Greenbackers. Some of the districts are very close and it is impossible to determine positively, but the official count will not materially change these figures. Seventeen districts yet to hear from will probably maintain about this proportion. Gentlemen who have watched the legislative returns carefully put down the total Republican vote at 70, with 17 districts to hear from. Haskell's majority in the Second district will reach nearly one thousand.

The latest Republican estimates, based upon returns from all the principal counties in the state, give Orner, Dem., 2,000 majority. The chairman of the Democratic state central committe puts his majority at 15,000. The counties to hear from are remote, and will not materially change these figures.

NEBRASKA.

LINCOLN, Nov. 10.—Advices from the Third district this morning estimate the election of Valentine, Republican, by a small majority. The Republican state ticket is elected, with the exception of Clark, candidate for state treasurer, who is defeated by Sturtevant, coalition candidate, by about 2,000 majority. The Democrats and Anti-Monopolists will control the next legislature.

OMAHA, Nov. 10.—Returns show the election of Dawes, Rep., for governor, and the rest of the state ticket by 12,000, with the exception of Clark for treasurer and Gere for regent. Sturtevant, Dem., for treasurer, will have 8,000 majority. Burke, Dem., for regent over Gere, 2,000.

NEW JERSEY.

TRENTON, Nov. 10.—The house will stand 33 Democrats, 2 Independent Democrats, and 25 Republicans. The Democrats are sure of at least 3 majority on joint ballot and may have 7.

MISSISSIPPI.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Gen. James R. Chalmers, Independent Democratic candidate for congress in the Second Mississippi district, opposing Van H. Manning, Democratic nominee, is in the city. In an interview he asserts that bulldozing was practiced in Tallahatchie county, where the election was prevented from being held under the pretense of fear of small-pox, which deprived him of 500 votes, and one box in De Soto county, where the judges refused to hold the election, which lost to him 200 votes. Notwithstanding all this, he claims his election on returns that have been made by 1,670 majority.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

Speculations on Top of the Results of the Election.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—A Washington special The Enquirer says: There are all manner of explanations touching the Republican defeat. Arthur is blamed; so are Keifer, Robeson, the River and Harbor bill, and innate cussedness. The Half-Breeds try to put it on the Stalwarts, and the latter on Blaine and the Half-Breeds. All, however, seem to be under the load of hay. Those who read coldly between the lines predict that the Republican party is hopelessly rent in twain. It is beyond all salvation. The breach, they say, will widen rather than contract, and if the Democracy are on their good behavior, they will have a walk-over in 1884. The dangers ahead with the Democrats are that the leaders may become rattled over the too sweeping victory. They may forget that the result was brought about, not by Democratic, but by Republican voters, willing to give the Democrats a chance. A bad congress, with stubborn or foolish leaders, may make a Waterloo two years hence out of what now is a Jena and an Austerlitz.

The unprecedented victory by which Cleveland was elected has already forged him to a first place in the ranks of presidential candidates. Calculating political sages say that if his administration as governor is clean, his nomination is assured, with an Ohio or Indiana man for second place. Then there are others, who, while they admit that the Republican party can not be reunited, do not concede that a Democrat as a distinctive candidate, put up by a national Democratic convention, can be elected. These affect to believe that out of the political chaos a new party can be formed with the right kind of a leader, which can draw recruits from both. Again, there is talk that the Republicans will reorganize on some basis with the tariff as the leading question, and take a leader like Joe Hawley or Ben Harrison.

Of all the curious rumors drifting, the most startling is that from henceforward Arthur will use the presidential office for all it is worth. His policy thus far has been shaped with an eye single to conciliate the Half-Breeds. Now he is to punish them. He has made nothing by conciliation and driven off friends. A Stalwart, the gossips have it, will succeed Robertson, the New York collector, and the cabinet is to be reorganized for aggressiveness rather than respectability.

Viewed in any light, the result is the most terrific rebuke an administration ever received. The Half-Breeds dance with delight, drag out the bones of the dead president, and go so far as to say that his murder is avenged. Even a class of Stalwarts are glad, because they think Arthur will now brace up and administer his office in the interest of their own faction.

The friends of Blaine, or some of them, say that behind the scenes Blaine has pulled the wires which has brought down the Republican tabernacle. The men who are rebuked by the defeat are the men who have defeated his presidential nomination in two national conventions. This, no doubt, is a wise deduction in the light of facts; but the men thus rebuked have good memories, and would and could destroy Blaine should he ever be nominated.

The success of Butler in Massachusetts is received with more general satisfaction by the Republicans than any other feature of Tuesday's battle. There has been a good deal of hypocrisy and cant among Massachusetts statesmen which it is thought bluff Ben Butler will unmask. His election means the retirement from public life of George Frisbee Hoar. Rumors that Butler has designs on the presidency as an Independent Workingman's candidate also find believers; and as nothing is improbable in Butler's political course, he may likewise bid for the Democratic nomination.

On all sides it is conceded that the day of the bosses is at an end—that is the old bosses. Not only that Grant, Conkling, Cameron, Logan, et al. are under the load of hay, but Blaine, who put them there, as well. The feeling drifts toward a new man—some one who, from obscurity, as with Lincoln, will spring up and reunite the hosts. No one believes that any of the old stokers can fire up the machine which was smashed yesterday for successful service again. Meanwhile the Democrats, who have suffered and waited long, live in the blissful hope that an estate which has too long been corruptly administered will pass into their hands, and that when it does their land will be filled with milk and honey.

NOVEL DUCK-HUNTING.

Hundreds of the Wild Fowl Slain While Hovering About a Steamer's Electric Light.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—As the steamer Emma C. Elliott was coming up the river last night, the cabin passengers and the crew were startled by a singular whistling sound in the air all about the boat. No one could account for the noise, and the more they tried the more unaccountable it seemed. Capt. Postal went to the electrical machine and turned on the light eight hundred candle power. In a moment the whole foggy river was flooded with light. It was seen that the noise proceeded from an innumerable colony of wild ducks on their way southward. The blinding glare startled the fowls, and rising in great crowds they commenced flying straight at the lamp. For twenty minutes the boat was literally full of ducks. Some of them would hit heavily against the glass around the light, and fall stunned to the deck. Others fell into the faces of the men, and were knocked down with sticks and canes. In all, several hundred were secured. Thirty-six were found concealed in different parts of the cabin this morning, when the boat came into the wharf at St. Louis. Others were found about the boilers and in the engine-room, and a great number were killed by the wheels. The ducks were mostly in the water when the boat ran into the immense flock, and when the electric light was turned on them they seemed to go crazy with fear. They rose in great droves and whirled around in the air before dashing themselves against the lamp. The men on the Elliott say that never on the river has there been so many ducks and geese as at present. Every slough and creek along the river between here and Cairo had several hundred ducks floating on it this morning. The total catch on the Elliott will amount to several hundred. A great many of the ducks killed fell back into the water and were lost.

Why Oil Went Up.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10.—A well-known Cleveland oil man, who is not connected with the Standard Oil company, says that the cause of the present disturbance in the oil market can be found in this fact: That the Standard when oil was away down, bought in enough at bottom prices to run them for a year. They have now run prices up to a point where outside refiners can't do business, except at a great loss, while they can still supply refined oil at the market price, or even at a less price than it is now, and still make money.

"Let the Standard run short in crude oil," said he, "and you would see the present prices go down like lead."

The Next Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The next senate will consist of 37 Democrats, 37 Republicans, and 2 Readjusters. Mahone and Riddleberger will continue to hold the balance of power.

CHAIRMAN JONES

Gives Estimates of the Result in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.

A. M. Jones, chairman of the Republican state committee, makes these estimates: Sixty-five counties, including Cook, give Smith, Rep., for treasurer, a plurality of 14,814. Seventy-six Republican members of the house are elected sure, with Wendell and Bradwell probably elected, which would make seventy-eight. It takes seventy-seven to organize the house. Thirty-one senators are certainly elected, with Halbert, Rep., of St. Clair county, still in doubt. There will be 107 members on joint ballot, and it takes 103 votes to elect a United States senator. Should neither Bradwell nor Wendell be elected, Mr. Haines, of Lake, who was elected as an Independent, will be elected. The state ticket is certainly elected.

In addition to the above statement, Mr. Jones said: "Wendell in the Ninth legislative district, on the last count, is 200 ahead, with one precinct to hear from and the chances are that he will have some voters there, and be elected. Judge Bradwell, after going over the returns, makes out that he has 100 votes ahead, and thinks that he is elected. Cullen is elected to congress, sure, but Lewis and Marsh are certainly defeated for congress. Thomas is probably elected."

"What do you think of the result in Illinois?"

"The result is glorious considering the elections all over the United States. Illinois is the only Republican state that has elected her entire state ticket and a majority in the legislature, and gained the United States senator. I think all the Republican states would have shown the same result if the Republicans had worked together without regard to faction, the same as they did in Illinois."

EX-VICE PRESIDENT WHEELER.

His Approaching Marriage.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Among the current lists of gossip afloat is the approaching marriage of ex-Vice President Wheeler and Mrs. Woodruff, widow of the supervising surgeon general of the marine hospital service, who resides in Chicago. It seems that Mr. Wheeler has paid the lady several visits during the past season, and among personal friends it is understood that the event is decided upon, and the day fixed for some time during the present winter. Although Mr. Wheeler and his future bride are somewhat advanced in years, their love affair is not without its romantic incident. When Mr. Wheeler was in congress, Gen. and Mrs. Woodruff boarded at the same house with him, and between the two families an intimacy of more than ordinary note grew up between them. Mrs. Wheeler's final illness and death occurred at this house, and during all this period Gen. and Mrs. Woodruff were her closest friends and her constant attendants, doing everything in their power by kindly attention to lighten the severe trials of the closing moments of her life. About four years ago General Woodruff died, thus leaving a single member of each family surviving under circumstances which could not but lead to the establishment of the strongest bond of sympathy between them. The result of such a condition of affairs was quite natural and will soon be consummated as indicated above. Mr. Wheeler is about twenty years the senior of Mrs. Woodruff, and is without a relative in the world nearer than a cousin with whom to share his enormous wealth. Friends of both parties in Washington regard the approaching alliance as in every way appropriate and quite as it should be in the light of long family intimacies and the peculiar fitness of each for the other.

ALEXIS, Ill., Nov. 10.—This morning James Johnston and William Buchanan, acting for the Clydesdale Breeding and Exporting company, seized 134 Clydesdale horses in the possession of Col. Robert Holloway, the well-known fancy stock man, whose farm is near here. The seizers came on a special train from Chicago, bringing with them Capt. Turtle, Detective Fishbone, Sheriff Holcomb, of Sycamore, and a posse of eighty-five young and daring fellows recruited in Sycamore. They arrived at 3 a. m. Col. Buchanan, as soon as it was light enough, indicated the animals, which were rapidly taken to the depot and loaded on stock cars. Holloway appeared on the scene, but his threats were unheeded, and he mounted a horse and rode to this place to seek legal redress.

The President.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—President Arthur maintained yesterday the same privacy which has characterized his present visit to the city, and remained at his home making final arrangements for his return to Washington. The door-bell of his residence, No. 123 Lexington avenue, was not rung by a single visitor. Just before 11 o'clock the president entered his private carriage and drove to church, where took place the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Miles, an old friend of the president. Yesterday afternoon the president left for Washington.

A Majority by States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The Democrats will have a majority in the house of twenty-two state delegations. This will insure the election of a Democratic president in case there is a failure to elect by the people and the house is called upon to choose the president.

Badly Excited Over the Election.

CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 10.—Wm. Alba, the proprietor of a barber shop on Commercial avenue, shot himself through the head. The cause is supposed to be excitement over the election.

Safe Robbery.

CLINTON, Iowa, Nov. 10.—A safe in the bank of Bartholomew & Co., at Preston, Iowa, was blown open yesterday and robbed of $7,000 by burglars who drove over from Clinton in a buggy.

HERBERT SPENCER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A complimentary dinner to Herbert Spencer was given at Delmonico's last night by a large number of American students of his philosophy. William M. Evarts presided. On his right were Mr. Spencer, Prof. W. G. Sumner of Yale college, Prof. John Fiske, Benjamin F. Bristow, H. W. Beecher, and E. R. Leland. On his left were Carl Schurz, Prof. C. E. Marsh, Abram S. Hewitt, Dudley Field, W. H. Hurlbert, Charles A. Dana, Perry Belmont, Albert Bierstadt, Chauncey M. Depew, Cyrus W. Field, Parke Goodwin, E. L. Youmans; and about two hundred others were present. After dinner Mr. Evarts said here was a Zulu proverb, that a stuffed body could not see secret things. He concluded that it was the wrong end of a dinner to consider the solid principles of Mr. Spencer's philosophy. He praised the labors of Mr. Spencer as tending to show that evil is evanescent and not eternal, and as tending toward that state of things where there is the highest morality and the greatest happiness of the race.

Mr. Spencer, replying, said:

"It seems to me that in one respect the Americans have diverged too widely from the savages. I do not mean to say they are in general unduly civilized. Throughout large parts of the population, even in long-settled regions, there is no excess of those virtues needed for the maintenance of social harmony. Especially out in the west men's dealings do not yet betray any too much of the sweetness and light which we are told distinguish the cultured man from the barbarian. Nevertheless there is a sense in which any assertion is true. You know that primitive man lacks the power of application. Spurred by hunger, by danger, by revenge, he can exert himself energetically for a time, but his energy is spasmodic. Monotonous daily toil is impossible to him. It is otherwise with the more developed man. The stern discipline of social life has gradually increased his aptitude for persistent industry, until among us, and still more among you, work has become with many a passion. This contrast of nature has another aspect. The savage thinks only of present satisfactions and leaves future satisfactions uncared for. Contrarywise, the American, eagerly pursuing future good, almost ignores what good the passing day offers him; and when future good is gained, he neglects that while striving for some still remoter good.

"What I have seen and heard during my stay among you has forced on me the belief that this slow change from habitual inertness to persistent activity has reached an extreme from which there must begin a counter change—a reaction. Everywhere I have been struck with the number of faces which told in strong lines of burdens that had to be borne. I have been struck, too, with the large proportion of gray-haired men, and inquiries have brought out the fact that with you the hair commonly begins to turn some ten years earlier than with us. Moreover, in every circle I have met men who had themselves suffered from nervous collapse due to stress of business or named friends who had either killed themselves by overwork, or had been permanently incapacitated, or had wasted long periods in endeavors to recover their health. I do but echo the opinion of all observing persons I have spoken to, that immense injury is being done by this high pressure life; the physique is being undermined."

Mr. Spencer spoke in a feeble voice. Indeed, he had been in bed all day, and undertook the fatigue of the dinner with apprehension. Cordial applause interrupted and followed his speech.

Origin and Characteristics of the Gypsies.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The origin of the gypsy dates as far back as the year 1425, at about which time they appeared outside the city of Lunenburg, on the Elbe, and humbly asked the privilege of encamping outside of their walls. In this band were about three hundred men and women, accompanied by an extraordinary number of children and dogs. They were very dark, jet black hair, and small black eyes. Their garments were of strange cut and pattern. They were unkempt and dirty even beyond the liberal limits tolerated by the cold-water fearing inhabitants of Lunenburg. They had with them donkeys, horses and carts, and were under the rule of two men who went by the high-sounding names of Duke and Count. These two alone were dressed in some kind of splendor, rode fine and well-kept horses, were civil and courteous almost to a fault, and seemed extremely anxious to make a good impression upon those whom they met.

This was the first place where these people appeared. How or why they came there was never known. It is a long and arduous journey from the Elbe to Egypt. How they reached the place, if they came from Egypt, will, perhaps, always remain a secret.

From the start they were always the same. They lie, cheat and steal; they cut purses, trade horses, poison pigs in such a manner as not to spoil them for food; they rob and plunder, and to such an extent as to compel them to be always on the move: hence their wandering.

Overworked Pupils in New York City Schools.

H. N. Hooper in New York Herald.

Now it seems clear to me that very much of the backwardness of youth in this city in study, development of character, mind and body can be traced to the manner in which our school regulations compel them to pass their days of growth toward the years of manhood and womanhood. For what I have personally seen of the teachers they are for the most part painstaking and conscientious, but behind and over them stands a system, and in that lies weal or woe. First, let us have conditions for joyous health; next, reduce studies to a minimum of those which can be well and enjoyably acquired. Turn out your graduating classes abounding in health, with power to think and power to apply. If they can only leave school with a knowledge of how really to study, and with sound constitutions, they will have a whole life before them, in which they can attend to the real study of life.

"Who Can Beat It?"

Crittenden Press.

Mr. R. C. Lucus raised upon his farm this year a peculiar kind of corn, at least a stranger to the farmers of this county. An ear was brought to our office. The ear is symmetrically shaped, and has no cob at all; each grain is covered with a perfect and complete little shuck. It is said to be an excellent food for cattle.

A Mother's Economy.

Fritz to Miller—To-day is my birthday.
Emma—And mine, too.
Karl—Mine, too!
Bertha—Mine, too!

Miller—Why, what a remarkable coincidence, neighbor!

Mother—Ah, yes, you see, we celebrate them all on the same day because it's cheaper."

Saves a Bill.

It is customary among the Piutes when a chief dies to kill the medicine man who attended him. This seems to be a simple and expeditious way of preventing the medicine man from presenting the Piute congress with a bill for $5,000.

And So It Is In Life.

A five-year-old, visiting at the seaside, and obliged to sleep three in a bed, narrated her dream, which, being unfinished, she accounted for fully by saying she did not have room to dream the rest of it.

Great Oil Boom.

E. Balch, Elgin, Ill., writes: "That after trying dozens of patent liniments, without relief, for a rheumatic and stiff knee, I feel I have "struck oil at last," for after using three bottles of THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, I am prepared to say it is the best application I have ever used."

Exploits of a London Beat.

"There was a man living in London in 1868," said a Philadelphia oyster-dealer to a Press reporter the other day "who had a very great liking for oysters, but he could not pay for them. He was a man of respectable connections and dressed all right, and he used to go into different oyster saloons about London, order two or three dozen, and then coolly inform the shopman that he had no money. The shopmen had no redress according to the law of England. A civil debt had been contracted which could only be recovered in a civil court, and so, after some hard swearing, the 'beat' would be ordered to vacate the premises. Had he been kicked out he could have brought an action for assault and battery and gained his case. The oyster 'beat' finally turned up at Scott's. Nobody knew him, so he ordered six dozen with brown bread and butter and a glass of stout, and soon got outside of them. Then he called upon the waiter and said he had no money. Mr. Scott took him by the collar and kicked him into the street. The beat returned with a policeman and gave Scott in charge, and the boss was fined five shillings the next morning at Bow street for unlawful assault. Six weeks afterward, a waiter from one of the upper rooms came down and told Mr. Scott there was a man upstairs who had eaten six dozen Whitstable natives, and on being presented with the bill, £1 4s, had declined to pay. Scott went up to see who he was, and found it was the same man who had played the trick before. This time the boss gave the beat in custody, but the police magistrate declined to sentence him, and discharged him with a caution. Blamed if the beat did not return a month or two afterward and succeed in getting another dozen oysters from a waiter who had only been a short time in the restaurant. Scott determined to be even with the man this time, so he warns up to him, and instead of black-guarding him pretends to believe that the beat is playing a practical joke and invited him into an adjoining room to take a drink. The beat was not suspicious, and he followed Scott into the next room, where he was seized by two or three of the men and stripped of his clothes. Then a quantity of tar and feathers was procured, and the beat was quickly turned into a bird. In that condition he was put into the streets. Of course he was soon pounced upon by a policeman and locked up. Scott was also taken into custody, but allowed to go home on giving a promise to appear in court the following day. By the time of hearing thirty-three oyster shop keepers were ready to give evidence against the beat, and the magistrate seeing it was a case of systematic swindling, discharged Scott for assault, and committed the 'beat for six months' hard labor. That was the last I heard of the gentleman."

A Veteran Drummer.

Dan Simpson, the veteran drummer boy of 1812, has given the Bostonian society his portrait and the drum that John Robbins beat at the battle of Bunker Hill. He sends a characteristic letter with the gift. Mentioning that the 20th is his ninety-second birthday and that his friends have suggested that he make the society a birthday present, he says: "I give you the drum and portrait, to be framed by you, and both of them hung up. I should like to have the portrait over the drum in the memorial hall of the old State House in Boston, and to be forever in the care and custody of the Bostonian society. If you could hang the drum (and possibly the portrait, for I was a drummer in the war of 1812), in sight of the lion and unicorn, perhaps they would leave the building, as some timid people wish, as I hear, without being ordered to do so by the Common Council. For my part I like these old relics, but it may be because I feel like one myself." Daniel says that the oil portrait, which represents himself holding the drum, is the work of Darius Cobb, "a most worthy gentleman, who spent much time and labor to make it a good portrait."

—As Jerry Fish and his wife and daughter stepped from a train at Utica recently, their weight of years caused attention. In answer to a question Mr. Fish said: "I am 105 years of age, my wife is 104, and my infant daughter here is just closing her eightieth year."—Utica (N. Y.) Herald.

Put this in you Pipe.

"Frank P. Warner came into our store to purchase a sample bottle of Zopesa for a friend, and stated that he (Mr. Warner) was afflicted with kidney and liver troubles for five years, and had paid $200 or $300 doctor's bills, and has now been completely cured by the use of two large bottles and one sample bottle of Zopesa. He was so bad at one time that he lost 37 pounds of flesh, but after using Zopesa claims that he is a sound man, and now weighs 145 pounds. He was loud in its praise, and readily consented to allow us to use his name for reference.

Again, Mrs. Forbes, wife of Mr. R. G. Forbes, Tilsonburg, Ont., through Mr. C. Thomson, druggist, says: "She was ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia and was reduced to a mere skeleton, but through the use of Zopesa entirely recovered and has gained 38 pounds."

We could present very many such, but have not the time nor space. Zopesa is not a cure-all, but acts directly upon the liver, kidneys, and stomach, correcting the digestion, giving activity to the liver and health to the urine. This corrects the whole system and the blood becomes pure. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

A Dollar's Worth of Knowledge.

Yesterday afternoon a seedy-looking individual in winter clothing walked into a beer saloon on Third Avenue, near Twenty-first Street. He called for a glass of "German milk," and as the froth shoved its way to the top, he remarked to the bar-tender: "This is a good summer for flies, and I am glad of it."

The bar-tender eyed the stranger for a few seconds, and replied; Yaas, 'tis a good summer for flies, but why should you be glad?"

"I make my living out of flies," answered the funny-looking man; "I'm the man who can bring flies to life after they have been drowned." The beer-juggler had his opinion about the customer. "He's a little off;" he exclaimed, addressing several young men who displayed big shirt collars, and were talking about base-ball matches. The "fly" resuscitator became angry because his abilities had been laughed at. "Gimme glass of water," he cried, "and I'll show you how quick I can bring a fly to life after it has been drowned."

The glass of water was produced, and the man scooped a fly with a swing of his hand on the bar. The fly was doused in the water. He kept it below the surface with a wooden cigar lighter. It was fully five minutes before the fly folded its wings, and bobbed up to the top to all appearances dead. The stranger picked it up gently and placed it on a table, while a crowd gathered about him. "You all see," said he, "that that 'ere fly is dead. Now watch me bring him to life. Say bartender, give me some salt."

The salt bottle was handed him, and he covered the dead fly with salt and offered to bet a dollar "that the fly would waltz out alive in five minutes." The bet was taken by a young man, and the pile of salt was gazed at intently by twelve persons. Suddenly there was an upheavel of the salt, and grains were scattered about the table. The apparently dead fly struggled through the covering, paused for a moment on the heap to perform its toilet, and then buzzed toward the lunch counter.

The fly resuscitator pocketed the dollar and went out saying: "Ta, ta, boys; you can get even on some other fellow some other day. Now you know how to bring a drowned fly to life."

After his departure several flies were drowned and resuscitated, and the young man who paid a dollar for this really old information went into a neighboring saloon, and was heard to say: "I'll bet a dollar that I can drown a fly and bring it to life."

"Too late!" replied a lounger, "a tramp just left here after scooping three dollars from the boys on that racket."—N. Y. World.

Dick Benbridge's Catfish.

"Two weeks ago, Mr. Smith, living a few miles from Calhoun, Ga., on the Costanaula River, lost a heifer about three years old, and, as it was fine stock, made diligent search, but could not find it. A few days ago a party of young men fishing on the river were attracted by the smell of a dead carcass, and upon examining the cause, lo and behold! they found a monster catfish, which had swallowed the calf, and the horns of the calf, becoming entangled in the gills of the fish, had drowned the fish. The fish measured exactly twenty-three feet and seven inches in length, and was five feet eight and one-quarter inches across the head, and, from the length of the whiskers, was supposed to be 117 years old."—Calhoun (Ga.) Times.

A Times reporter on Thursday last read the foregoing extract to Captain Benbridge, the celebrated mud-cat fisherman of this city, for the purpose of learning whether in his opinion the story was worthy of credence. Captain B. listened attentively to the reading, and then unqualifiedly stated that he had no doubt the catfish had swallowed the heifer as related, and cited several instances coming within his own experience to demonstrate the voracity—"gaminess," the Captain termed it—of the mud catfish. "In 1859," said the Captain, "I was fishing at Goose Island, in the Wabash, with my younger brother Tom and Jay Mix, when Tom accidentally lost his footing and was immersed in twenty feet of water. As he was a good swimmer, however, I had no fears for his safety, when suddenly, to my horror, I observed a terrible commotion in the water, and instantly saw Tom disappear within the jaws of an immense catfish. Knowing that this species of fish had no lacerating teeth, I calmed myself with the thought that, if I could manage to capture the monster, the safety of Tom would still be assured, as I should find him alive and well in the catfish's belly. Jay and I, therefore, captured one of John Rodefer's sheep which was feeding on the island, through which we run longitudinally a boat-hook, to which we attached our 'painter' or boat-rope. With this immense bait and tackle we commenced 'fishing' for the catfish, and in less than ten minutes had him landed high and dry, and found Tom safely ensconced inside, as safe and and sound as if in a feather-bed. We measured his finny highness and found him to be nineteen feet long—one of the largest I ever caught. O yes," said the Captain in conclusion, "you may rely upon the Georgia catfish story as being strictly true."—Lafayette (Ind.) Times.

A Bird's Nest Imbedded in Wood.

Yesterday, while an elm tree (which had been recently cut down near Drogheda, Ireland,) was being cut up in the saw mill of Messrs. Bar & Shearer, Ardrossan, the working men came upon a nest containing six eggs, four of which were quite intact. The nest was about four inches by three, and was entirely composed of fog. It was encased in about nine inches of wood, which proves that many years must have elapsed since the nest was formed and subsequently deserted by the parent bird. Both nest and eggs were in a capital state of preservation and they will be preserved carefully as a natural curiosity by the firm in whose premises they were found. Some months ago a similar discovery was made in the same yard.—Glasgow (Scotland) Herald.

—Among the applicants for relief at the Albany (N. Y.) almshouse was an elderly woman, whose attire and appearance spoke of better days. She bore a letter of introduction from Supt. Cassin, of Troy, which requested that the bearer, Catherine Taney, who claims to be a sister of the late Roger B. Taney, Chief-Justice of the United States Supreme Court, be provided with apartments, and that every attention be bestowed upon her. The lady is sixty-nine years of age. —Troy Times.

—A Connecticut boy in California is capable of drawing very fine distinctions. His father gave him permission to pluck one of the ripe peaches. The boy did pluck one, and then he bent the branch, gnawed all the fruit off the other and left the pit hanging to the stem upon which it grew. His powers of circumvision without disobedience saved him from a castigation.

—The net receipts of the late fair for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy, held in Apollo hall, amounted to $1,300. We have been requested to state that those who contributed liberally towards the financial success of the fair, were Hon. John Winans and C. B. The Minneapolis Tribune says of him there: "With a firm, commanding figure and an eye in which the true fires of eloquence flash and burn, he possesses all the outward as well as inward characteristics of an orator. His lecture was delivered with an eloquence that held the audience spell-bound for over two hours, a feat which few men can accomplish or dare attempt."

UNDER THE WHEELS.

Madison Journal, Nov. 8th.

"W. J. Ohls, a freight conductor about thirty-five years of age, residing in Baraboo, where he has a wife and child, was killed Monday about midnight at the Catfish crossing, near Fuller & Johnson's plow works. From the testimony rendered at the inquest yesterday afternoon before Justice C. N. Brown, it seems that the train of which Ohls was conductor was coming from the north between 11:30 and 12 o'clock upon the night in question, when just before the Catfish bridge was reached, Ohls and his rear brakeman, John Keernan, went out upon the top of the caboose. One stood upon the right of the little cupola and the other upon the left. As the train speeded under the bridge, the brakeman heard a noise and looked around in time to see the conductor's lantern roll against the railing of the cupola where it lodged. The conductor had disappeared without a sound, and the brakeman testified that he must have slipped from the top of the car as it was utterly impossible for him to have been struck by the top of the bridge. The train was stopped within about seventeen car-lengths and backed up to the bridge, where the body of Ohls was found, with life utterly extinct, lying across the iron girders upon one side of the bridge. Dr. Ward testified the death could have ensued from either of two wounds upon the back and front of the head, respectively. The jury rendered a verdict that the "said W. J. Ohls came to his death at the Catfish crossing, from causes unknown," or words to that purport. Yesterday forenoon, an engine and caboose were run up to the scene of the accident, and men of ordinary height standing upon the roof of the caboose were at lesat eight or ten inches below the lowest brace across the top of the bridge. This demonstrated sufficiently that the conductor had not met death by being knocked from the train by beams of the bridge, and the leading theory that remains is that he slipped and fell upon the iron girders with such force as to cause death."

CONDUCTOR TUCKER.

Conductor L. S. Tucker, of the Chicago and Northwestern road, was killed near Footville, Rock county, on Tuesday night. He boarded the front end of his train at Footville, and signalled the engineer to go ahead, which was the last seen of him alive. The train started south; and there being no night operator at Orford, the train went by that station without stopping, until reaching Afton, where the engineer waited for the signal to go ahead, and after waiting beyond the time, went to the operator and asked if Tucker had registered. Being told that he had not, the engineer went back to the caboose, and the conductor was not to be found. All hands concluded that he must have fallen from the train. The train was side-tracked, and a party went back to look for him. He was found near Footville, literally cut to pieces; it is said that no piece of the remains would weigh five pounds, and the pieces were scattered along the track for nearly a mile. The train men gathered up the pieces, and returned to Afton. It is said that when the remains were first gathered up they were put into an ordinary cheese box. Mr. Tucker was about fifty years of age, and had been in the employ of the company for many years. He resided at Poplar Grove, Illinois, and leaves a wife and two children. His run was between Harvard and Elroy.

The Beloit Press of yesterday makes mention of Conductor Tucker's death as follows: "A conductor on section freight No. 14, running on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, named L. S. Tucker, was killed near Footville Tuesday night. He was missed by the other train men at Evansville, and search being made for him, fragments of his body were found along the track, but his head was not recovered until yesterday. The body was in the most horribly mangled condition imaginable. Tucker was a married man, and leaves a child. His home was at Poplar Grove."

The Weather.

The themometer at 7 o'clock this morning registered 51 degrees above zero, and at 1 p. m. at 58 degrees. For the corresponding hours last year the register was 29 and 39 above.

I LEARN with much pleasure, that the citizens of Janesville are to have the opportunity of hearing the Hon. George R. Wendling. CONGRESS.

A Fusion Majority in the Next National House of Eighty-One Over the Republicans.

Guesses as to the Complexion of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Reports as to the various districts are still so conflicting that the political authorities here are not in possession of sufficiently accurate information to definitely state the complexion of the next congress. So far as the house is concerned, however, it is simply a question of majority. The highest claim of the Democrats is 107. The Republicans cannot certainly count more than 123. The Readjuster coalitionists are not sure of more than five, while one straightout Greenbacker is elected. On the basis of the calculation, 117 of the Democratic members-elect are from the northern states, or states which did not officially enter the rebellion, including Missouri and Kentucky as such, and 79 are from the ex-Confederate states. Some of the northern Democratic leaders are rejoiced at this, as they say it will prevent the outcry that the Confederates have captured the capitol, and will make it very difficult to raise any war issue. More than that, the large preponderance of Democrats from the non-southern states will render the election of a northern Democrat as speaker a necessity. Another feature which has been made the subject of significant comment is this: The Democrats have a majority in the congressional delegations from twenty-two states and the Republicans from thirteen. If, as is now claimed, Illinois, Florida and Virginia shall prove to be equally divided, this would prevent the possibility of any very close contests should the next presidency be thrown into the house.

As to the senate there are doubts as to one or two states, and the Democrats seem to have information that it is by no means certain that a regular Republican can be elected to the senate from Illinois to succeed David Davis. Later dispatches, however, from Republican sources seem to authoritatively refute that claim. Giving Colorado, however, to the Democrats, and Nebraska to the Republicans, the senate after March 4 next will stand 37 Republicans, 37 Democrats, and 2 Readjusters. Mahone and Riddleberger will then have the balance of power, and will be able to dictate terms to whichever party may aspire to the control of the senate. If in any of the western states where the Republican majority is small and where a combination between the Greenbackers, Anti-Monopolists and Democrats may be successful in electing a United States senator, as perhaps in Nebraska, the senate in such an event would be tied, even if the two Readjusters should vote always with the Republicans. In any event the Republicans and their Readjuster allies cannot hope to control the senate, except by an extremely narrow margin.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

A Fourteen-Year-Old Girl to Be Hanged at Surrey Court House, Va., Nov. 17.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Mary Booth, a colored girl 14 years of age, is to be hanged at Surrey Court House, Va., Nov. 17, for the murder of Mrs. R. C. Gray and Travis Jones, some months ago, in that county. The murder was committed solely for the purpose of getting a small sum of money which was supposed to be concealed somewhere in the house. The girl killed her victims by giving strychnine to them in their food that had been cooked for their breakfast. Soon after the murder strong threats were made of lynching the culprit, who is the youngest girl ever sentenced to be hanged in Virginia. Mr. Gray, husband of the murdered woman, before his removal to Virginia was an official of one of the largest western railroads, with his headquarters in Chicago, and was reported to be very wealthy. Since the death of his wife he has frequently threatened to take his own life, and a short time ago committed suicide by shooting himself through the head.

Chili and Peru.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Ex-President Pierola, of Peru, said to a World reporter: "There is every indication of a forthcoming financial collapse in Chili, induced by the wild speculation which her sudden acquisition of wealth has brought about. The continual defeats the Peruvians sustained have been due to their lack of men and material. All Peru is to-day united to defend the national soil."

"Have you heard what was the result of the negotiations attempted by Chili through Senor Garcia Calderon at Arequipa?"

"I know nothing more than what I have gathered from the telegrams published in the newspapers that the negotiations were broken off, and that Calderon had not left Chili. I have every reason to believe that this is true."

"What is the feeling in France toward Peru?"

"Decidedly in her favor. The justice of our cause is seen and appreciated."

Folger's Views.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—In conversation on political topics, Mr. Folger expressed his opinion that until the existing breach is healed the Republican party cannot consistently expect success at the polls. Judging from the tone of his remarks, the secretary never entertained the opinion of carrying New York.

Heavy Failures.

The failure of W. A. Leavitt, of Philadelphia, caused the collapse of the Globe Rubber company of Trenton, New Jersey, whose liabilities are $175,000 and assets $120,000.

GOOD GOODS

Low Prices

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS

Anticipating a large trade we have bought, one of the largest and best stock of goods ever introduced into Southern Wisconsin, which will be sold at prices that will be popular with all the people. Read and note every word and if we do not do just as we say we will, call ourselves no dry goods men and do not buy one dollar's worth.

Our first article we place before you that we call very cheap is one case of all wool Cameiette which we place upon our counters at 50 cents per yard, former price 70 to 80 cents. These goods are all wool in all the new shades, and for a genteel dress at a low price there are no goods in the market to compare with them. They are 40 inches wide.

We place upon our counter 20 pieces of American Colored Silk, at $1.25, this is the best value known for the money. And in Black Silks we beat the entire party. We will give you Black Silks for 8, 10 and 12 shillings, never before known for the money. An examination of this department will verify the fact.

In Black and Colored Cashmeres we are without a rival in Rock county, so say all the ladies who have seen them

In Cheap Dress Goods we have ten cases in all the new shades which we are selling from 6¼ to 12½ cents.

This is very cheap, a great many of the dark colors are much better for comfortables than any cheap print, and wear much longer.

Ladies Cloths and Flannels we have an endless variety and sell them all at low prices.

In Cloaks and Shawls we have the largest variety ever shown by us, and far superior to any stock this side of Chicago.

In Velv and Cloth Shawls we have a beautiful line. Call and see them, ladies

In White Bed Blankets we have a beautiful stock and all cheap.

We have one case of the celebrated Eagle and Phoenix Cotton Bed Blankets far superior to Wool and at much less price. We will sell you the 11/4 Blanket for $5.00, as good value as any $8.00 Wool Blanket in the market. Call in and see the novelty and it will please you.

Bleached, Brown and Red Table linen in large variety and at popular prices.

1,000 dozen Linen Towels cheap, and good. We will sell you the best 25 cent Towel in the United States.

Ladies' and Children's Underwear We absolutely stand without rival in this department. Our 50 cent Ladies' Vest is simply grand. In gentlemen's Underwear we stand far ahead of our competitors. Our 50 cent and one dollar Vest cannot fail to please you every time.

Our Ladies' Cloths and Ulster Cloth are simply splendid. The line that we bought at the great closing sale of A. T Stewart's, are selling rapidly, and at prices far below any goods offered in the State. Give this line a look and you will be more than suited.

Our Flannel Department is filled with desirable goods; Red, Grey, Blue, White and all fancy colors, for ladies' and children's wear, and at popular prices.

Our Glove and Hosiery department the best we ever had and at prices truly surprising. Our nine cent Hose, a wonder to everybody. We received to-day 50 dozen of Hose at one shilling, that lead the van. Our two and three shilling Wool Hose are the best ever offered. It surprises ourselves to think we can give you as good an article for the money in this line as we can. Do not fail to see them.

Our Carpet stock full with all the new novelties. We have the only genuine Axminster Moquette Carpet in the city. In this we will refer you to any carpet house in the United States.

Respectfully yours,

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS
